Honosono, July 20rm, 1889.

TER Report of the Harbour Master for last year shows a slight decline in the amount of shipping entering the harbour as compared with the previous year. The decline was possibly caused by the demand which existed for shipping elsowhere basing taken off a few steamers which were not securing full employment in the China trade, and does not necessarily betoken any falling off in the amount of cargo carried. The tonnage enteling the port may no doubt be taken as a lover to the Chinese authorities. He was taken mugh kind of barometer showing the progress or decline of trade, but it is not suffidently sensitive to indicate small variations. The increase from 4,400,000 in 1878 to 6400.000 tons in 1888 necessarily indicates s vast expansion of trade, but small variations of a few thousand tons in a year cannot be regarded as a very reliable indication | China Sea." The junks, sampans, and other small either one way or the other. The supposition that there has been an actualfalling off in trade is in fact negatived by the increase in the junk tonnage, which partially counterbalances the small decline in steam tonnage. This decline has been in steamers under the British flag, while there has been an increase under foreign flags, which is partly account ed for by the fact that during the year several steamers trading on the coast which transferred to the German flag.

One of the most important paragraphs in the Report is that referring to the subject of emigration. The number of emigrants who left the colony last year was 96,000, as compared with 82,000 the previous year. The bulk of this increase is to the Straits Settlements, for which 72,744 left last year as compared with 61,733 in 1857, but there has also been an increase of nearly 5,000 in the emigration to San Francisco, the total number for that destination being 18,275. The inreduced to tears. Frequent cases of so-called "kidnapping" are reported, but, except in the case of women or children, my impression is that in a large name ber of these reported cases, the so-onlied " kidnapped "coolie is a rogue, who, having agreed to emigrate and received a "bounty" for so doing, either escapes from the vessel as she is leaving the barbour, or gets some of his friends to report that he has been taken away against of the ship before leaving, or traced and sent back from the port for which he has sailed; in either case, if he is successful, he will be ready to try his game on again sooner or later. The jumping overboard of " kidnapped" cooling from outward bound Chinese passenger ships, of which a good deal was heard a short time ago, is one of the symptoms of abuses in which I do not believe. It is a curious fact that few if any of these individuals are ever heard of after jumping overboard, though they are seen to be picked up aid that on the 22nd inst. about forty men came by boats which appear to be waiting for them. to his quarry and threatened his men and drove It is more than probable, I think, that in nearly them away. FOOCHOW.

We regret to learn that the drought has destroyed most of the sweet potatoes and ground nut plants; and that not more than a third of the usual crop can be gathered this year. The former is one of the chief articles of food of the poor classes of people, and the oil of the latter is used by the natives in cooking. A boat has just returned which started last week with dollars for the purchase of ten at Yung How. Those in charge learnt, the day after passing Yeng Ping, that they could no proceed further up the river without great risk of being plundered of all their treasure. The discontent lately prevailing in the City of Fouchow has come suddenly to an in I, though scarcely in a way that might have been expected The reforms introduced by the Viceley proved to be distasteful to a large section of the inhabitants, and from complaints and immunurings amongst themselves, they proceeded to make their disapprobation known by means of anony. mons placards, posted in conspicues positions about the leading thoroughtares. In these, we understand, the Viceroy was referred to it no very complimentary terms. An endeavour was made to suppress them by continually tearing them down, but without effect, as they were secretly replaced. The popular itsling had, it appears, been daily growing more and more bitter, and it is a fact, although not generally known, that by way of resenting their fancied wrongs, it was planned to fire the City in several places. In the end the people premiled. The Vicercy has withdrawn all unpopular edicts, and Fooebow is again quiet. There must be reasons, and pretty strong ones too, for the local govern. ment having felt obliged to give way to the demands of the people in this easy manner. We are not likely to know for certain what these are ; but suspect it came to this, that they had to accept the lesser of two evils—a show of weakness or a rising of the people—and they elected to face the former. The fact is, the hands of the authorities are pretty full. The troubles on the upp r Min are by no means at an end. Boats laden with treasure for the purchase of tea have had to return this week, finding it impossible to proceed much beyond Yeng Ping with safety Traffic is practically at an end for the time being, and cann t be resumed until the lawless bands infesting that part of the river have been altogether suppressed. They retire to the bills as the troops appreach, and return again to the river side as soon as the troops are out of sight They are spread far and wide, making it most difficult for the military to grapple with them. It is thought that the Secret Societies have been, and are, at work in this business. That it was a thoroughly organized movement in the first place, there is no doubt, and in spits of official rumours that the trouble is over, we are not at all sore that the leading spirits are not still busily at work .- Echo.

PALAWAN.

About 150 miles north of Bornso is the island of Palawan or Paragua, one of the Philippine belonging to the Spanish, but one which, owing to the small trade and communication, is very little known. The population is scanty in the northern part of the island; the race are Tabannas, very similar in appearance to the Drusans of Borneo, but without their industrious habits. From Port Royal to the South, Socioo ratives are the chief inhabitants, although here also there are a good many Tabanuas; but these are quite subjected to the Soloos, who sre a warlike, treacherous race, not acknowledging the Spanish Government, whom they set at deflauce. Escaped criminals from Borneo and other parts also find a refuge here. The seat of Government is at Port Royal, a naval station and convict settlement situated in a bay on the East Coast about two-thirds of the length of the island to the north. At present, besides about 40 Spanish officials, there are steps without faltering. This being the first steps without faltering This being the first European execution for ten years, considerable There are 4 ganboats, two of which are always excitement was manifested. in the port, and the other two cruling about round the southern parts of the island. Port Royal is a very pretty small town, beautifully situated on a bay of the same name, having as fine un anchorage as you can find anywhere, for, once inside, vessels are sheltered from winds from any quarter, and large steamers can lie alongside of the pier, which is nearly 100 yards long. The streets are a model for the left, keep straight on for a hundred yards, cleanliness, and have a row of trees planted on then take the right turning."- Irish Tourist:

the East Coast, and north of Port Royal, At Lion-chow the weuther has been very hot. This is a town of 2,200 inhabitants; at present and prayers for rain were offered by the authori. it is hardly of any commercial importance, owing to want of communication. The people only grow enough for their own con umptions The crops at Lien-chow have been on the and are generally poor. On the West Coast whole good, and the price of rice is reasonable there is no village of any size; but near the northern extremity there is a most splendid harbour in the bay of Malampayan, where the largest man-of-war can lie perfectly sheltered and almost touch the shore. A chain of mounleased, has been apprehended on a further charge toins run down the centre of the island, the peaks of which range from 4 to 8,000 feet. On either coast the land from the foot of the hills wind and capsized. THE FIGHTING IN UPPER EGYPT. CATRO, 8th July. Colonel Wodehouse telegraphs that he atimates the enemy to be at least 5,000 strong. With his present inadequate force, he says, he is unable to attack them, but is still following them in a northerly direction in steamers. He recommends the collection of a strong force at Assonan. The Royal Irish Rifles and two black regiments have accordingly been ordered to proceed thither from Cairo. LONDON, 10th July.
